England Aply Meets Challenge Of Building Winning Speech Team

By M.C. GARROTT

When Larry England graduated from Murray State University in 1970 with a degree in speech and history, he had two opportunities to teach.

One was at his alma mater, Calloway County High School, from which he had graduated in 1964 and located within a mile of the University's campus. Several acquaintances, however, tried to discourage him from taking the job.

"That's a rural high school," they said. "Most of the students are farm kids. Your chances of ever building a debate and speech program there would be slim, indeed."

That was the wrong thing to say to Larry England. If he had entertained any thoughts of taking the other job, he forgot them then. To a farm boy such as he is, that was like getting slapped in the face with a glove.

"To me, that was the challenge I was looking for," he says. "I made up my mind then and there that I was going to build a championship debate and speech team at Calloway County High School, because I know students with rural backgrounds have just as much intelligence, ability and potential as students anywhere."

Five years later, in 1975, England's dream almost came true. His junior varsity debate team missed the state championship by only one point, losing to the Sacred Heart Academy of Louisville. In the last three years, his junior varsity debate and varsity teams have finished second twice and third once in the state competition. He has had scores of individual winners at the state level.

It hasn't come easy, but he has followed his success formula from the beginning—motivating the students and instilling in them an amazing pride of accomplishment.

When he started teaching at OCHS in the fall of 1970, England found the debate and speech situation much as he expected. The program had been neglected. The school had lost its National Forensic League charter because of inactivity. There was little interest in such a program among the 875 students in the sprawling school.

"The big challenge that first year," he recalls, "was to convince the students that they could do anything they set out to do and would work hard to accomplish. They had never won anything in debate and speech, nor had they ever enjoyed the thrill of success or pride of accomplishment in this area."

"This meant building positive attitudes toward the program as well as life itself," he said, "and once they saw someone was sincerely interested in them and would love and work with them, they responded."

That first year, England managed to involve only 14 students in the program, but his formula for success paid off almost from the start. They started participating in local and regional

Hubbard Connected With Dairy Cooperatives In Milk Scandal

U.S. Rep. Carroll Hubbard reportedly accepted donations from dairy cooperatives that were connected with the 1971 Nixon milk fund scandal, according to a story in the Kentucky Post, a Covington newspaper.

The non-election year donations were said to total $18,000, the Post said.

Campaign finance reports filed with the federal Election Commission reveal that Hubbard accepted $8,000 from Special Political Agricultural Community Education (SPACE) Committee, a political arm of Dairymen, Inc., of Louisville, and $5,000 each from the Committee for Thorough Agricultural Political Education (CTAPE), the political arm of Associated Milk Producers Inc. of San Antonio, and Agricultural and Dairy Education Political Trust (ADEPT), the political arm of Mid-America Dairymen Inc. of Springfield, Mo., according to the story.

Hubbard defended his position by saying that he did receive contributions from the three groups but that the total was $15,000 in that each group gave him $5,000 during 1975. He went on by saying that each group contains Western Kentucky dairy farmers who have supported him in the past when he served as state senator and that these supporters prompted the campaign contributions.

Hubbard said he did not request gifts from the political committees and noted that the milk industry in the past provided support for his predecessor, Rep. Frank A. Stubblefield, "number two man" on the Agriculture Committee.

Claiming to have no obligations to the dairy industry, Hubbard said he is on the House Banking, Currency and Housing Committee and the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee where no dealing with Dairy industry legislation occurs.

He noted that the milk price support bill received the backing of all the Kentucky's congressmen.

"I have always noted for legislation which would have been helpful to dairy farmers and other farmers both as a state senator and as a congressman," Hubbard remarked.

Noting that he received contributions from a "wide range of groups," Hubbard stated that "I received many contributions last year—When you have to seek reelection every two years only certain people would refer to 1975 as a non-election year."

The story also reported that Kentucky Sen. Walter (Dee) Huddleston received donations totaling $2,500 from funds distributed by the SPACE group.

On the only recorded notes taken in Congress in regard to milk supports, both men favored the higher supports.

Huddleston Hears Citizens In Sessions Wednesday, Mayfield

By DAVID HILL

Murray Ledger & Times Staff Writer
Social Security and Veterans Administration were the number one problems of a group of citizens who met with Senator Dee Huddleston in Mayfield Wednesday.

Huddleston spoke at a combined meeting with area media representatives and other officials after a luncheon at the Mayfield Holiday Inn, and said he was pleased with the turnout at the sessions held that morning.

About 125 persons met Huddleston, and several issues were discussed, including the controversial Mayfield Creek drainage problem, TVA electric rates, and others.

Huddleston said it "was a good day for us to demonstrate that the government is still interested in your problems and is willing to sit down and listen to them."

"We're still fighting the bird war," Huddleston said, in response to a question on the blackbird situation in several parts of the state. He noted that a hearing will be held Friday on a request for a permanent injunction barring use of Tergitol to kill the birds, but said he feels that the injunction will be denied.

The senator said that Congress is taking a harder look at the Tennessee Valley Authority, and its electric rates, and said that it is felt by some that TVA may be drifting away from its original purpose, that of providing inexpensive electric power.

Huddleston also said that he opposes taking away or changing the Revenue Sharing program, as some congressmen would do. "To take it away now would cripple many programs," he said.

On the subject of direct price controls, the senator speculated that Congress would take a long look at some direct controls if inflation "takes off again," and added that Congress is also concerned about the large budget deficit, spending is still premature at this point.

Huddleston called the U.S. position in Angola an example of how "government has moved in a way that is unwise and not prudent. I don't think we should get involved, because there is nothing to be accomplished there."

He continued by saying "I think we'll continually be put into situations like this; sometimes we might have to intervene militarily, but we should pick the times..."

The senator said he has not sanctioned any particular Democratic candidate for president at this time, saying "I'm going to see how they perform." In answer to a question, Huddleston said he would support George Wallace, "if he is nominated."

Firemen Report For Work Today In Paducah

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — A third platoon of Paducah firemen reported to work on time this morning, city officials said, after Wednesday's shift stayed home in a contract dispute.

About 25 fire fights, all members of Local 168, International Association of Firefighters, called in sick Wednesday morning.

The department is divided into three platoons, each of which is on duty for 24 hours.

Tuesday's platoon was held over Wednesday, and fire officials said arrangements were made to have volunteers help fight fires if needed.

Mayor William S. Murphy said Wednesday that each man who called in sick had to provide "a doctor's statement of the nature of their illness in the 24 hours following the start of their shift this morning."

However, he said only a few of the men could be notified because their telephones were either busy or were not answered.

The sick calls came after the union's demand for a written contract was rejected Tuesday night by the city commission. The city claims it cannot negotiate a contract until the state legislature acts on a collective bargaining bill for public employees.

The union and the city had earlier agreed orally on wages and fringe benefits, with a 7 per cent raise for the last half of this fiscal year and an 8 per cent hike the following fiscal year. But the union insisted on a written contract.

Fiscal Court Votes Money For Dispatcher

The Calloway County Fiscal Court agreed to pay the salary of a radio dispatcher for the Murray Police Department, in action taken Wednesday at a meeting of the court.

Since the police department handles calls for the sheriff's department during times when the court house is closed, the feeling was that the court should provide a radio dispatcher for the police.

The court's participation will consist of a salary of $2.35 per hour for a 40-hour week, according to action taken Wednesday.

In other action, Rob Walston was appointed "safety officer," to assist the court in complying with OSHA requirements and to increase the safety of working conditions among county employees.

Also, the squires voted to close an abandoned road west of Highway 641, and on the North edge of the Charlie Miller Road. The abandoned road is about 2,000 feet long.

Senate Bills Designate New State Symbols

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Senate has passed bills designating the coffee tree and the monarch butterfly as official state symbols, but both measures were strongly criticized by one legislator who chided his colleagues for wasting time and money.

Sen. Donald Johnson, R-Newport, said both bills were "silly and frivolous" and have cost state taxpayers thousands of dollars in time and material.

"Here we have wasted an entire afternoon on two frivolous bills," Johnson said after members of the upper chamber joked and laughed for more than an hour before passing Sen. Tom Ward's bill to designate the Monarch butterfly as Kentucky's official insect.

Ward, a Democrat from Versailles, objected to Johnson's comments, which abruptly ended the levity in the Senate for the day.

"I simply must say as a human being, I resent the implications of what the senator has said and I cannot but notice that the only member of the Senate who has not introduced a single bill this session is the senator from Campbell," Ward said, referring to Johnson. "If there is any waste of money it may be there."

That made Sen. William Gentry, D-Bardonia, rise to change his vote. He said he would not vote for Ward's bill because he did not agree with the implication that the merits of a lawmaker should be judged by the number of bills he sponsors.

Sen. Eugene Stuart, R-Prospect, started the humorous debate on the

Mayfield Merchants

Offer Reward Fund

For Fire Information

MAYFIELD, Ky. (AP) — Local merchants are accepting public pledges for a reward fund that will be paid anyone with information about a series of fires in Graves County.

The idea was initiated Wednesday by City Prosecutor Dennis Null and the Mayfield Police Department.

Three recent fires have destroyed the homes of Mayfield patrolmen, and officials said arsonists are believed to have been involved.

Asst. Police Chief Donald Dixon, in a letter to merchants, said "we are trying to put the criminal out of business and to make Mayfield and Graves County a better and safer place in which to live."

The reward fund will be supervised by the merchants association.

Sunny And Warm

"butterfly bill" when he offered two floor amendments, both of which were subsequently defeated.

The first amendment would have named Rep. Norbert Blume, D-Louisville, as the official state insect. The second would have named Rep. Larry Hopkins, R-Lexington, as Kentucky's official bug.

Stuart, who offered the amendments in jest, rose to comment on Johnson's remarks.

"I've spent 12 years up here and I know how tedious it gets," Stuart said. "And if it were not for the injection of humor...I don't know how many of us could stand this job."

14-Year Old Charged By Local Officials

A 14-year old juvenile is being held in the juvenile detention cell at the Calloway County Jail on charges of knowingly receiving stolen property, according to County Attorney Sid Easley.

Easley said the charge is in connection with a series of break-ins at Hazel.

School Board To Meet Here Tonight

The Murray Board of Education will meet in regular session tonight at seven p.m., according to Supt. Fred Schultz.

Included on the agenda are several items, including plans for opening bids on windows and fire safety equipment for the middle school; a review of the instructional programs; a review of the audit analysis for 1973-74; and the superintendent's report.

The meeting will be held at the board office, at Ninth and Poplar.

Three Injured In Accident Wednesday

Three persons were injured in a two-car accident west of Murray on Highway 94 late Wednesday afternoon, according to Kentucky State Police who investigated the incident.

State Trooper Charles Stephenson identified the driver as Kerry Williams, 23, Route Three, and Voris Pickard, 71, Route One Mayfield.

Stephenson said the Williams car was going east on 94 and the Pickard car was going west on 94 when the accident occurred.

Williams, Pickard, and Lois Pickard, a passenger, were all treated and released at the Murray-Calloway County Hospital.

FOR FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1976

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES
(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

Scattering energies and apathy are the two extremes which could hamper progress now. Follow a sound, middle-of-the-road policy and you can reap a fine harvest.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 to May 21)

Your innate industriousness and knack for performing under pressure can be a boon now — if you do not listen to dissenters and pessimists.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Stress your clear-cut, smart perceptiveness. Direct your versatility into profitable channels. An all-around good day!

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Enlist assistance where needed. Do not try to do too much at once. Indications of help from unexpected sources. Make ready for new arrangements, possibly a detour.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

A day which stresses a need for efficiency. Take a cue from competitors what TO DO and what NOT to do. You can be indifferent or enthusiastic. It's up to you!

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Don't try to "get by" on your personality now and DO avoid outmoded methods, deviation from essentials. Be objective; yield where you should.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Especially favored now: business interests and personal relationships. Display your efficient and amenable side and you can't help but earn rewards.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 23)

Avoid all tendencies to procrastinate or to work sporadically. Keep eyes on your goal, maintain a steady and reasonable tempo, and step progressively toward it.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 24 to Dec. 23)

You may be called upon to make some weighty decisions. However, this should not daunt the well-developed Sagittarius who, even in the most critical moments, thinks clearly and astutely.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 24 to Jan. 20)

If you missed out on something during the early part of the week and it is still desirable, try for it now. Planetary influences helpful.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Review your plans, methods; note where you can better situations. Eliminate anxiety; supplant with precautions and good management. Work to avoid oversights.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

You may have to ease up in some respects. But NOT ease out or fade out. A really fine day for accomplishment if you are well organized and maintain an even pace.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a magnetic personality, vitality and an unusual gift of leadership. You are so extremely versatile that you can succeed in almost any field which appeals to you and for which you educate yourself. However, you would probably do best in one of the professions. In such case, it will be important to remember, however, that you MUST curb an instinctive tendency to be dogmatic, or you could alienate associates. Your flair for the dramatic could make you an excellent trial lawyer or, on the stage, an heroic actor. You could also succeed at writing, statesmanship and (or) music. To Marry In May

Miss Cynthia Jane McDaniel

Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. McDaniel of 1655 Ryan Ave., Murray, announce the engagement of their daughter, Cynthia Jane, to Chappell Franklin Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Harris of Dallas, North Carolina.

The bride-elect is a 1972 graduate of Murray High School and will receive her Bachelor of Science Degree in Speech and Hearing from Murray State University in May. She is a member of Kappa Delta Pi Honorary Education Society. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Henry Hopkins and the late Mr. Hopkins and Mrs. Chester McDaniel and the late Mr. McDaniel.

Mr. Harris is a 1973 graduate of North Gaston High School, Dallas, N. C. and is presently attending North Carolina State University, Raleigh, N. C. majoring in textiles. He is a member of Delta Kappa Phi Textiles Fraternity.

The wedding will be solemnized on Saturday, May 15, at 1:30 p.m. at First Baptist Church, Murray. A reception will immediately follow the ceremony in the church Fellowship Hall. Only out-of-town invitations will be sent. Friends and relatives are invited.

Jane Jones Fitch Is Given Special Award

Mrs. Jane Jones Fitch, daughter of Mrs. Bertha D. Jones and the late T. Rafe Jones of Murray, was recently honored at Bozeman, Montana, by being presented with the "Outstanding Community Service Award" there. An article in the Bozeman newspaper reads as follows: "Jane Fitch, a woman active in county and city governmental affairs, was honored Saturday with the outstanding community service award."

"Mrs. Fitch, who was sponsored by the American Association of University Women, Bozeman Branch, was selected among five other women."

"Her civic activities include affiliation in the MSU Women's Club, the Democratic Central Committee, Gallatin County Democratic Women's Club, and the American Association of University Women."

"The 11th annual award luncheon was sponsored by the Bozeman Jaycees."

Special Subjects Studied Here In The Bachelor Living Class

A new trend in Home Economics today is to open their classroom doors to men.

For the past two years, Murray High School has offered a class for Senior guys called Bachelor Living. They study various areas of home economics including clothing, foods, housing, grooming, personal and family relationships, and consumer education.

At the present time, they are involved in the study of dating, engagement, and marriage, taught by the student teacher, Polly Anderson.

Ned Walsh, minister of Youth First Baptist Church, was guest speaker in the class on Thursday, February 5. He discussed with the boys their role in marriage and how this is influenced by religious beliefs.

After completing this unit,

Mrs. Lucy Lilly will involve the boys in the study of parenthood and the role of the father.

The last nine weeks, Mrs. Sally Crass will conclude the year with a unit called "The Bachelor Pad," a study of housing, while Mrs. Lilly begins a clothing unit with the College and Career Bound Class.

Discarded nylon hose make excellent tie-ups for tomatoes and other garden vegetables. They are strong yet soft enough not to cut into the plant.

Son Should Be Told Who is Real Father

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My ex-husband's parents who live far away insist upon sending my son Christmas and birthday gifts, and I wish they wouldn't.

Jimmy is 6 now and old enough to question where these gifts come from. So far I've been saying, "they're from some friends of Mommy's," but I don't know how much longer that will suffice.

I divorced Jimmy's father and married again when Jimmy was 2. My husband adopted Jimmy, so he's the only father the boy has ever known, but I would rather not tell him about his "real" father until he's older and better able to handle it.

I suppose I'm not being realistic because so many people know about my first marriage that someone is sure to tell him. However, I don't want Jimmy to know just yet.

When the time comes, should I tell Jimmy, or should my husband? I want it to be an O.K. experience, not a traumatic one. Can you or your readers who have been through this help me?

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: The time to tell Jimmy is right now! Say, "Before I married your father, I was married to another man, and HE is your natural Daddy. We decided it would be better for both of us if we ended our marriage, so we got a divorce. Then I fell in love with your father and he adopted you, making you his LEGAL son."

Then tell him about the set of grandparents you've been unfairly hiding all these years. The sooner you tell Jimmy, the easier it will be. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: I have a relative who cannot make a statement without using vulgar or profane language.

He says he has the right to use any kind of language he feels like using. I am sick and tired of it. What should I do? And how do you feel about vulgar language, Abby?

OFFENDED

DEAR OFFENDED: If you have told his person that his language offends you and he makes no effort to clean up his act, you have the right to absent yourself from his company. I don't appreciate vulgar language, either, but the more I like the person, the less I'm offended by his language.

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago, a guy I went with gave me a gold charm bracelet. (I'll call him "Pete.") Pete and I broke up, and I married a good friend of his. My husband and I see Pete about once a week.

I haven't worn the bracelet for two years, and I probably won't ever wear it again. It's very pretty, but it doesn't mean anything to me now.

I was wondering if it would be tacky of me to pawn the bracelet. We could use the money. What would you do?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UN: I'd return the bracelet to Pete.

Down the Garden Path

By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

Since I have been watching the birds during the cold weather, I have been interested in the various sorts. There have been so many different kinds of sparrows at the feeding place that I looked them up in a bird book and found that there are about forty different kinds and several sub-divisions. They eat a lot of the food I put out, but I don't mind. They usually clean up the seed that the bigger birds scatter and they are so peppy on a cold day that I have become rather fond of them.

My thanks to Mrs. Lois Curd of Hazel who sent me some Datura seed this week and to Elvis Witherspoon who also sent some. I have a long shady stretch at the back of the house and I think I will plant a long row there, as very few things will grow there. It will be beautiful in the evening, and I do appreciate all these thoughtful people who sent them.

Let me remind those of you who want to save your Poinsettias for another year, that as the petals drop off your plant it is time to let them go partially dormant, don't water them as much, just keep them in a warm dry place, or perhaps I should say in a COOL dry place until warm weather. Then you can take the next step. And I will remind you when the time comes.

I rarely buy the packaged bulbs found in stores, but I will have to say that the finest Amaryllis I have ever seen came out of a carton from a local store. I have never seen anything grow as tall. The stem measured forty inches to the bloom. I finally put the pot on the floor back of my breakfast table so I could enjoy the big red bloom. Otherwise it was nearer the ceiling than the table. Now three huge blossoms are opening and it is really a joy to behold. I am also watching my second bowl of narcissus beginning to open up. The first one was such a big success that I decided to try another one. From the looks of the plants, I am going to have another big bouquet of these lovely scented flowers.

Do you need a specimen tree in your yard. There are several that make a bright spot in the yard but my favorites are the Ginkgo, the Chinese Rain Tree and the flowering Crabs. The Ginkgo with its fan shaped leaves makes a beautiful shade tree, grows tall and shapely. The Rain Tree, or Kroeluteria, has sprays of yellow flowers in May and the seed pods are just as ornamental.

The Crab trees are simply covered with blossoms in the spring and have the added attraction of bearing edible fruit. The Hops Crab is my favorite of these. Any of these trees would be a wonderful asset to a yard and the first two given an especial feeling of permanence to a place.

Select one or more of them and watch them grow into a thing of beauty.

Ordaining Women

The Baptists have ordained another woman to the ministry. That makes about 15 in the whole Southern Baptist Convention. This one has a job, but not a preaching one.

The Episcopalians may end up with a split church over whether or not to even ordain them. The Lutherans already are split, so there's little harm left to be done. The Presbyterians, both north and south ordain them, but won't hire them.

Well, actually, they will hire them to shuffle papers in the administrative offices, but the preachers are few and far between. One estimate has been that there are fewer than 200 women preaching in the north and south churches in the whole country.

Susan Sprague, who will graduate in May from Louisville's Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, is one of the growing number in her denomination who have been ordained to the ministry.

She doesn't have a preaching job of course, and few Baptist ordained women do, but she's hoping. She may even be considering the American Baptist Convention (read Yankee) and is encouraging other Baptist women to do the same since, she says, "things are more open" there.

Susan Sprague and others like her in various denominations deserve more than a chance to push a pencil. Most are vitally concerned about their churches and quite often are brighter and more capable of handling a pastoral call than men. They bring, as they have since the beginning of time, a unique insight to problems.

No longer, if ever it was true, is a woman's place, barefoot, pregnant and in the kitchen. She is a member of the world community and deserves a fair chance.

Market Specialist Persists In Living

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market specialist persists. Harshly criticized even within the stock exchange community, and a wedge in its credibility gap, he lives on, and so does a unique stock exchange problem.

The specialist stands in a powerful position on the floor of exchanges, a sort of traffic cop at the intersection of buy-sell orders, entrusted with maintaining an orderly flow, perhaps even buying or selling for himself.

Say the critics: a privileged position loaded with potential conflict of interest that is damaging to the public interest.

The New York Stock Exchange argues he is essential to the proper functioning of an auction market, which it is. And that, in effect, is the same conclusion reached by a study committee a few days ago.

"We... found that the specialist is a necessary supplement to the auction market in providing depth and continuity," said the committee, headed by William Batten, an exchange director and former chairman of J. C. Penney Co.

Retain the specialist, it said, but be more observant of him, measure his performance, discipline him, make him work for his money. And most important, raise "quality of market" considerations to the very highest board level.

The role of the specialist, it appears, cannot be removed from the exchange machinery. He is an essential gear, it is said, although one that grinds and throws off sparks. But remove him and the machinery stops.

And so, while credibility and integrity and reliability are essential to the widespread restoration of confidence in securities markets, the specialist seems destined to stay.

The specialist is a market maker. Sixty-seven specialist firms are responsible for keeping an orderly flow of transactions and prices brought to the floor by brokers, even if it means temporary damage to their profits.

That is, if an imbalance exists between buy and sell orders at a certain price, the specialist might have to risk his own capital, even buying against the flow of prices, in order to keep business moving smoothly.

Nevertheless, usually he is in a position to make money. Usually, say critics, he is also in a position that is enticingly loaded with potential conflict. Often, say the critics, the potential is realized.

What the public finds difficult to accept is that any man, any specialist firm, would intentionally risk his own capital for the greater good. And yet, that is the assigned task of the specialist.

Could he be replaced? Some say he could be — with an electronic computer program, the so-called "black box," a mysterious concoction of the mind that the Batten committee claims is yet to be translated into hardware.

"There is no evidence it can be done," said Batten in an interview. "I'm not for throwing out a workable system until I know a better way to do the job."

More Info On M.D.'s

I am writing in reference to the picture captioned, "Four Generations of Medicine," and the accompanying story published in your paper February 4, 1976.

As the daughter of Dr. J. R. (James Rufus) Phillips, I wish to give the following information regarding him, which you did not have available: he was graduated from the University of Louisville Medical Department in 1892 at the age of 34. Prior to studying medicine, he had been a school teacher. It has always been my understanding that his period of apprenticeship under Dr. John Robert Coleman followed his graduation. I do not recall the period of time it covered.

By M. C. Garrott

Back in 1973 when the City Council was looking for a new superintendent for the Murray Natural Gas System, Paul Mansfield, a member of the council at the time, reported at a meeting:

"Gentlemen, we have searched high and low for a qualified individual to become superintendent of our gas system. So far, we have been unable to find one. At this time, I would like to recommend that Tommy Marshall be employed in that capacity."

"I don't think Paul meant for it to come out quite like it sounded," Tommy said the other day as he laughed about the incident.

Leaning back against the wall beneath several big, clicking, clock-like instruments, Tommy talked about his first two years as the head natural gas honcho in Murray. "It has been interesting," he said. "No two days are alike, and each one brings a new challenge or problem."

Tommy, who used to help handle the student financial aid programs at Murray State from which he graduated, supervises a crew of 15 full-time employees.

The system has 3,000 customers, including 2,500 residential users. The rest are commercial or industrial customers. The gas they use comes from the Texas Gas Transmission Corporation's main lines, to which the Murray system hooks on two miles this side of Mayfield. En route to Murray, the system services 300 Graves County customers along the way.

A lot of people have the impression, Tommy pointed out, that the gas system is operated with their tax dollars and squawk about it. This is not the case. The system is city-owned and operated solely with revenue received from the customers it serves. I, for one, think we get our money's worth, especially when I recall my days of splitting kindling and firewood and bringing in coal.

All the gas the city gets is allotted to it by Texas Gas, and "it is getting less all the time," Tommy says. There are three kinds of allotments: One based on a seven-month summer period; one on a five-month winter period; and a daily one.

The summer allotment runs from April through October; the winter from Nov. 1 through March. In addition, the system is allowed "to pull" only a given amount of gas during any day of the year. This figure is 6,600 mcf. One "mcf" is 1,000 cubic feet of gas, so the daily limit for the system is 6,600,000 cubic feet.

If the daily consumption exceeds this figure, the Texas Gas people smack a $10 per mcf penalty on the system. It's important to stay within the allotment!

That's where the big instruments in Tommy's office come in. These are telemeters. With them, he and his people can tell how much gas is being used as the clicking needles record the system's usage every two seconds.

By starting at 8 a.m. on a given day and watching the monitors for the first five hours or so, the gas folks can tell, by taking an hourly average, how the day's consumption is stacking up against the day's allotment. If it looks like it's going to be exceeded, calls go out to the industrial customers to switch to their standby sources for heat or energy.

"We have only had to do this one time in the past two years," Tommy said. "We have had some good breaks on the weather generally, but that time the temperature had dropped to 5 degrees above zero." Another factor is the fact that no new customers have been added to the system since January, 1973.

"Chances are this switch-over would have been necessary several times this year," he said, "had the Tappan Company not been on strike, because in January we used more gas than during any one month in the past three years."

The system faces an additional curtailment, Tommy went on to emphasize, pointing out that beginning April 1 there will be approximately 50 per cent less gas available for the industrial users than they had during the current five-month winter season.

"The same amount is expected to be on hand for the residential and commercial customers," he said. It's the industrial users that first feel any gas supply curtailment, but they are on an industrial rate basis and understand this.

"This is nobody's fault," Tommy went on. "We buy from Texas Gas and they tell us how much we can have. It is up to us to determine how far we can make it go. It's just that simple."

A number of procedures have been instigated to help save Murray's precious gas. One example is the strides Tommy and his people have made in reducing the amount of "lost or unaccounted for" gas escaping from the system through leaks, faulty meters and the like.

In 1972, this loss amounted to 80,000 mcf. In dollars, this was a $50,000 loss. At the end of 1975, this loss was only 6,000 mcf, or less than $5,000, for the year.

Tommy and his people are bracing themselves for some static from the users right now as a new rate increase, the first in three years, goes into effect with the February billing. This, he said, will cost the average home owner about $12 to $15 per year, or about $1.25 per month.

"When I was being interviewed by the Council," Tommy laughingly recalls, "Buel Stalls asked me what made me think I was qualified to cope with the problems that one could expect in the gas superintendent's position. I simply told him that I had worked for six years at Murray State. He said that should do it. I guess we both were about right."

Let's Stay Well

Encourage Oldsters by Expecting

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

BLASINGAME

Most of us will agree that we have more trouble with our memory if we are asked about it. Older persons are particularly inclined to admit memory impairment, especially when they are depressed.

According to studies done by psychologist Robert Kahn, Ph.D., and associates at the University of Chicago, the elderly say that their memories fail because they are conforming to the role expected of senior citizens in our modern society — and not necessarily because they have organic brain defects. The results showed that except when the older persons were depressed or when they had demonstrable diseases of the nervous system, they performed well in memory tests.

Even though memory function is imperfect at all ages, we have grown accustomed to emphasizing memory impairment in the older rather than the younger person.

Such stereotyped thinking, according to these investigators, may result in misjudging the true state of memory capacity in many aged. They could and would respond differently in many cases if expected to do so. If failure of memory is real, organic disease of the nervous system or depression should be considered as possible causes. A depression may be overlooked in an elderly person and may be responsible for an exaggerated, false memory defect.

The researchers express the opinion that many older persons, such as those in nursing homes, have developed symptoms of senility and forgetfulness in part because such a response was expected of them. Encouragement and support could bring more positive responses and participation in activities with others.

Q. Mr. H.L. is concerned about the publicity regarding the potential danger of eating eggs and wants to know how he can be sure whether he can include them safely in his diet.

A. Opinions vary among authorities about the danger of consuming animal fats on a regular basis. Egg yolks are a common source of such saturated fats. Many physicians feel that vegetable fats are safer than animal fats. However, it is generally recognized that certain persons handle fats much better than others. I suggest that you discuss this matter with your physician. He may want to question you about your family history and to test the level of your blood fat. He can then advise you about your tolerance of fat and your diet, including your consumption of eggs.

Q. Mr. N.N. asks if the liver can recover from alcoholic cirrhosis if drinking is stopped.

A. The liver has great healing power, but much depends on how severely the liver is damaged. Repair will often start in a few weeks if alcohol consumption is stopped. Don't try to fool around and drink a little — alcoholic cirrhosis is a very serious disease. Remain under the care of your physician and follow his advice.

DOG OBEDIENCE COURSE AVAILABLE IN MURRAY

The Life and Learning Adult Education program of Murray State University is sponsoring a course on dog obedience, to begin February 23rd. The course will be taught by members of the Paris Tennessee Obedience Club, an organization which, according to its constitution, seeks the "betterment of life" for dogs and engages in numerous community service activities to that end.

Dogs learn quickly, more quickly than any other animal man has domesticated; and all dogs can and will respond to training, although some breeds are more receptive than others. Dogs like to learn because they enjoy the attention and praise they receive from their masters. And they are eager to obey because dogs, like children, thrive in the security of a well-ordered world and perform well only if they know what is expected of them. Unfortunately, dog owners often neglect important training because they don't think they have the time or simply because they don't know how to begin.

Any serious attempts at training, no matter how intermittent or haphazard, will result in some measure of success. Books are available at the Calloway County Public Library which will explain basic techniques. However, it is easier, far more valuable, and vastly entertaining to engage in a regulated and well-constructed course of instruction. Dog obedience lessons extend group and personal attention from trained teachers. They enable you to compare your dog's progress with others. And they guarantee results!

The course consists of ten weekly hour-long sessions. The first week, your dog may strain and pull at his leash or wrap it around your legs; he may bark uncontrollably, attempt to chase other dogs, or shake with fear. But by the tenth lesson, if you have followed all instructions carefully, he will heel politely at your side, with or without a leash; he will sit and lie down on command; and he will stay where you tell him to and come when you call. We promise!

The instructors do not train your dog for you. They teach you how to teach him. During class, the instructor will explain the method for one phase of training and then criticize or approve as you put your dog through his paces. It is expected that you will work with your dog at least twice, and preferably daily, for fifteen minutes or more per week.

The Humane Society strongly endorses Murray State University's dog obedience course. To quote from the manual presented by the Paris Tennessee Obedience Club "... when you teach your dog good manners, through obedience training, you increase his pleasure in living, for you give him greater opportunity to be with you and serve you. You give him a feeling of confidence in himself and in his master, and you are making him a better member of the community in which he lives. Every minute you spend training your dog is going to be repaid to you in hours of enjoyment with a well behaved companion who knows and understands what is expected of him and who is happy to give back to you his unswerving loyalty and trust."

The cost is $10.00 for ten weekly sessions. Application forms are printed periodically in the Ledger & Times or are available from the Continuing Education office, Administration Building, Murray State University.

DOG CENSUS
There are eight dogs at the Murray-Calloway County Dog Pound this week. PUPPIES: one black and white mixed-breed, female; one blind eye; two black labrador, one male, one female.

FULL-GROWN DOGS: one female setter-collie; one black and white mixed breed female; one male hound; one male shepherd-labrador; one female shepherd.

DIRECTIONS TO THE POUND

The Murray-Calloway County Dog Pound is located off Highway 641 North. Take a right turn at Penny Road. The pound is the first building on the right, just before the Fisher Price factory parking lot. It is a small cement structure set back from the road, with a public entrance at the back.

If you want to take a dog from the pound, contact the city dog warden or the county dog warden.

From The Eye Of A Woman

By Patsy
Beauchamp

March 1, will find the Murray State woman's basketball squad playing Western Kentucky in the first round of the Kentucky State Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament.

What's that old cliché? Three times is a charm?

Well, Coach Dew Drop Rowlett is due for that charm and especially for Western.

The Lady Racers took a 59-51 loss from the Hilltoppers last Tuesday night in Bowling Green. But before you feel sorry for them....

Earlier in the season, the Hilltoppers thumped the Lady Racers here by a good 20 points. Now an eight point difference on the home court of one of the best teams in the region isn't that too dog-gone bad.

The Ladies had the field goal edge on the Hilltoppers 22-21 but the Toppers took the game on free throws, having 17 points compared to Murray's seven.

And the fact that starter Cindy Macovik fouled out along with Debbie Hayes didn't help much either.

Center Cindy Leimbach hasn't come out of her cold spell either. Cindy didn't score any points against the Toppers.

So, I'm going to go for Murray to win their first round game against Western. I hope I'm right. So does a lot of people.

I got a big thrill over the weekend. Dr. Nan Ward was visiting in Murray and dropped in and told a few good stories.

For those of you who don't know Dr. Ward, she is a former member of the women's physical education department at Murray State and was the chief organizer and coach of the first women's volleyball team at MSU.

In her two years of coaching the volleyball team, she coached them to two consecutive third place finishes in the Kentucky Intercollegiate Championships.

Dr. Ward is now teaching and coaching junior high basketball at her home, Salt Lick, Kentucky.

Carol Schaeffer placed sixth in a field of 12 at the Mason-Dixon Games which were held in Louisville over the weekend. Carol and sister Kathy participated in the Alumni Mile run.

University of Kentucky's Lisa Moore won the event. Lisa transferred to UK from Murray State this year.

The women's track team will be competing in the Memphis Classic on Feb. 21.

Cowens Battles Fans In Loss To Rockets

By The Associated Press
The Boston Celtics played in Houston and their center Dave Cowens really made a hit with the fans. In fact, he made several.

Cowens not only took on the Rockets but their backers as well when a fan climbed out of his seat and exchanged punches with the player Wednesday night.

Cowens' teammate Charlie Scott also got into the action and before it was over, the ruffian was double-teamed and thrown out of the arena. After that, the Celtics simply weren't themselves and dropped a 115-103 National Basketball Association decision to the Rockets.

"I'm not going to stand there and watch him beat up a teammate," Scott said, explaining why he jumped into the fray. "The officials didn't get there quick enough... they weren't going to do anything."

The fans apparently didn't appreciate Scott's noble gesture, razzing the Celts the rest of the way.

"I don't understand it," Scott said. "After that we were the ruffians, the bad guys, and they were the good guys."

The rest of the NBA was relatively tame as the Philadelphia 76ers whipped the Portland Trail Blazers 118-106; the Milwaukee Bucks stopped the New York Nets 109-95; the Seattle SuperSonics trimmed the New Orleans Jazz 93-90 and the Phoenix Suns blasted the Detroit Pistons 123-94.

Calvin Murphy led a fourth-quarter Houston surge that helped the Rockets beat Boston. The Rockets led 101-97 with 1:58 left when the fan rushed out of the stands and pushed Cowens. Cowens traded punches with the fan, but remained in the game.

Murphy scored 31 points and Rudy Tomjanovich added 25 as the Rockets erased a three-point lead in the fourth quarter to win going away.

76ers 118, Trail Blazers 106
George McGinnis scored 23 points to help Philadelphia overcome a 35-point performance by Portland's Sidney Wicks and beat the Trail Blazers. The Trail Blazers, playing without injured center Bill Walton, trailed the entire game.

Bucks 109, Knicks 95
Brian Winters and Junior Bridgeman combined for 53 points in leading Milwaukee over New York. Bridgeman helped the Bucks reel off 12 straight points at the end to put the game away.

SuperSonics 93, Jazz 90

The judge's order Wednesday for a preliminary injunction against sale of the club to Canadian interests provoked lively applause in the courtroom.

It all came down when the mayor marched triumphantly into court and said an $8 million offer for the club had been made by San Francisco financier Robert Lurie and Minneapolis trucking mogul Robert Short.

"Bobby Thomson still lives!" said the mayor, laughing out loud when asked how he felt about saving the Giants for San Francisco. Thomson saved the Giants for World Series competition in 1951 with a timely homer.

Said the mayor, with a pardonable touch of pride: "They have authorized me to tell the court they will pay $8 million cash for the rights to

Mueller Wins Gold For USA

By WICK TEMPLE

AP Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK (AP) — Peter Mueller, the 21-year-old speedskating whiz from Mequon, Wis., gave the United States its second gold medal of the 12th Winter Olympic Games today, flashing to victory in the 1,000 meters in course record time.

And, for the second time in these Games, a doping charge surfaced as the Czechoslovakian hockey team saw its victory over Poland erased. Czech team captain Frantisek Pospisil failed a urine test after taking codeine, a forbidden drug, to combat the flu epidemic which has swept through the Olympic Village. Pospisil was allowed to continue in the competition but the Czech team physician was barred from the rest of these Games.

"The flu epidemic cannot be used as an excuse for breaking the rules," said Prince Alexandre de Merode, president of the International Olympic Committee's medical commission.

Russia's Galina Kulakova lost her bronze in cross country skiing after taking Ephedrine to combat a cold.

Mueller was delighted with his victory in the 1,000.

"Right now, while it's over, I'm pretty happy," said Mueller. "When I was skating, I thought it was too slow, but I gave it everything I had in the last 200 meters. I didn't think I would win but when I saw that the track was so slow I had new hope."

Mueller barreled around the icy speedway in 1 minute 19.32 seconds to beat out Jörn Didriksen of Norway and Valery Muratov of the Soviet Union. It was the ninth medal for the United States here, surpassing the American total four years ago at Sapporo, and lifted the United States within three medals of its all-time high of 12 collected at Lake Placid, N.Y., in 1932.

And there are more to come. U.S. figure-skating queen Dorothy Hamill of Riverside, Conn., appears to have a lock on the gold in her specialty, to be decided Friday. The American hockey team hoped to close within one game of a bronze with a victory over Poland later today.

The strong U.S. speedskating contingent goes after more glory Friday in the 1,500-meter event. Skier Cindy Nelson, a bronze medalist in the downhill, has a shot for a medal in the giant slalom Friday and Bill Koch, a surprise silver medalist in the 30-kilometer cross-country ski Thursday, is entered in the 50-kilometer event Saturday.

Today's only other final was the women's 20-kilometer (12.4-mile) cross-country ski relay. The Soviet Union won it with Finland second and East Germany third. The United States came in eighth among the nine teams, nosing out Canada by one-hundredth of a second.

The Russians continue to lead the medal standings with 11 golds and 24 total medals out of 27 events. East Germany, with six golds and 14 total, is second and Mueller's victory boosted the United States back into third place with two golds, three silvers and four bronzes. Speed skaters have accounted for six of the nine U.S. medals, including the only other gold — Sheila Young's victory in the 500 meters.

Mueller had his own cheering section at today's race, including his fiancée, Leah Poulos, who won a silver of her own at 1,000 meters, and his parents, Paul and Rita Mueller.

"I knew he could do it if he skated here as he could," said Miss Poulos. "I knew he was ready for the 1,000. From 200 to 600 meters he looked real good. I spent from the 800 to the 1,000 meters biting my nails because he slowed up a bit."

"I'm so glad it's over," added his mother, Rita. "That's all he's ever wanted — the Olympics."

Mueller, a former physical education student at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, finished an unimpressive fifth in Tuesday's 500 meters.

"I was disappointed after the 500 but Coach (Peter) Schotting talked to me last night and told me not to worry, just to give it my best."

Schotting said Mueller may have been helped because the ice was resurfaced after he raced and officials left too much water on the track, slowing it down. But both Didriksen and Muratov raced before the water was applied. Didriksen was clocked in 1:20.45 and Muratov 1:20.57.

Dan Immerfall, 20, of Madison, Wis., who took a bronze in the 500, finished 12th today in 1:21.74 and Dan Carroll, 31, of St. Louis finished 28th in 1:27.37.

In the 20-kilometer relay, Russians Zinaida Amosova, Nina Baldicheva, Raisa Smetanina and Galina Kulakova combined for a gold with a time of 1 hour seven minutes 49.67 seconds.

Finland clocked 1:06:36.57 and East Germany was timed in 1:09:57.95.

The U.S. team of Marta Rockwell, 31, of West

Lebanon, N.H., Jana Hlavaty, 34, of Chicago, Terry Porter, 22, of Concord, Mass., and Twila Hinkle, 21, of Frisco, Colo., finished in 1:17:56.17.

For A Day...

As we pause together, to observe this birth date of one of America's truly great men... Abraham Lincoln... let us remember what this man stood for... hoped for... for all Americans. In his campaign speech in eighteen fifty-eight, he said, "The Declaration of Independence was formed by the Representatives of American Liberty from thirteen states... Now, my countrymen, if you have been taught doctrines which conflict with the great landmarks of The Declaration of Independence, if you have listened to suggestions which would take from its grandeur, and mutilate the symmetry of its proportions... let me entreat you to come back... Do not destroy that immortal emblem of humanity, The Declaration of Independence." If all of us today would only heed this great man's plea of more than a hundred years ago... We could build together, a true and lasting meaning in... The United States of America. Let's try... for Abraham Lincoln... and all Americans.

the Giants' franchise with $500,000 down right now as a sign of good faith."

"Do you have the money?" asked Giants' lawyer Richard Murray.

Moscone answered up, "They told me they did." All the while, Lurie and Short stood smiling as the words were made part of the record.

City Atty. Thomas O'Connor called both men to the witness stand and heard them say they were prepared to put the half-million down "right today and pay the $7.5 million balance in cash upon signing a purchase contract."

Murray asked Short if the $8 million offer might suddenly find tough sledding should Labatt's Brewery of Toronto withdraw its offer for the Giants, and Short responded that nothing would change, even "if Labatt's wasn't in the picture."

After the session, Short said he did not know just how long the offer would remain open, but he didn't think it would be logical to extend it much beyond March 1. Short is former owner of the Texas Rangers baseball team and the Minneapolis Lakers basketball team. The Lurie wealth comes from longstanding real estate and other investments in San Francisco.

The Labatt's bid was $8 million for the Giants' franchise and $5.25 million to cover litigation that was expected to develop from breaking of the Candlestick Park lease that extends through the 1994 season.

Maryland Beaten In Own Gym By Tar Heels

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

After North Carolina beat Maryland at Chapel Hill on Jan. 25, Lefty Driesell knew things would be different when he got the Tar Heels back at his place in College Park.

Things WERE different. The second game didn't go into overtime.

The third-ranked Tar Heels, who beat No. 4 Maryland with some strain the last time they met, left no doubt as to their superiority by belittling the Terps 81-69 in their own town Wednesday night.

"There is no doubt that Carolina is the best team in the Atlantic Coast Conference now," said Driesell. "I don't think they beat us in Chapel Hill, but they beat the devil out of us tonight."

And they did it with a one-eye ballplayer — Mitch Kupchak, who played in Carolina's 95-93 overtime thriller last month. Kupchak injured his eye in a game against Georgia Tech last week and has suffered from double vision since, but still managed to score a game-high 21 points.

"I had a little difficulty seeing on my left side," said the 6-foot-10 center who is the apple of the pro scout's eyes. "I also had a problem seeing across the court, but it was no big thing. It might have been bad had I got poked in the eye again."

North Carolina Coach Dean Smith, informed that Driesell had just about raised the flag of surrender in the ACC race, was hesitant to pick up the spoils just yet.

"We're extremely pleased to be where we are right now," he said, referring to the Tar Heels' league-leading 8-1 mark and 19-2 record overall. "But I hope Lefty didn't put the whammy on us. We have to go to Tulane now and there's still the ACC tournament."

Elsewhere, No. 10 Notre Dame crushed Villanova 84-67; 12th-ranked North Carolina State outscored North Carolina-Charlotte 67-64; No. 14 Missouri nipped Oklahoma State 72-71; 15th-ranked Western Michigan lashed Eastern Michigan 85-73 and No. 18 Virginia Tech trimmed William and Mary 50-48.

Notre Dame's Bill Paterno scored 14 points and anchored a crisp defense that led the Irish over Villanova. Kenny Carr's 22 points powered North Carolina State's victory over North Carolina-Charlotte. Willie Smith hit a layup with 11 seconds remaining as Missouri beat Oklahoma State and took sole possession of the Big Eight lead.

Jimmie Harvey scored 21 points to pace unbeaten Western Michigan past Eastern Michigan. Ernest Wansley's layup with 2:36 left put Virginia Tech ahead for good and the Gobblers went on to beat William and Mary.

Dr. J. Paces Nets To Win, Issel Scores 28 For Nuggets

By The Associated Press
Twenty-five points, 15 rebounds and six assists.

Julius Erving of the New York Nets accomplished all of this in 39 minutes — and he wasn't even trying to be an offensive threat.

"I tried to get more involved in the defense," said Erving after leading the Nets to a 120-110 American Basketball Association victory over the Spirits of St. Louis Wednesday night.

Erving also blocked five shots and made a steal, just to keep his hand in the action at both ends of the court.

"The Spirits slowed down the pace," Erving said, "and they put the crowd to sleep. But they weren't going to do the same thing to me. I didn't want to be flat, so I played a lot of roving defense — you know, tried to block shots and anticipate passes."

The Spirits not only had trouble chasing Erving around the court, but got dizzy watching Kim Hughes' heroics. He scored 21 points and had 19 rebounds in one of his brightest moments as a Net.

In the only other ABA game Wednesday night, the Denver Nuggets whipped the San Antonio Spurs 137-133.

John Williamson led a 16-8 burst in the closing minutes that secured the Nets' victory. The Nets led by 18 points early in the third period but St. Louis, paced by Moses Malone, chopped the margin to 92-88 on Freddie Lewis' basket with 7:16 left in the final period. Williamson scored eight of New York's next 16 points and Erving added four for a safe 108-96 lead.

Nuggets 137, Spurs 133. Dan Issel scored 28 points and David Thompson had 25 to lead Denver over San Antonio. The Nuggets, who won for the ninth time in their last 10 games, scored 38 points in the fourth quarter to overcome a 102-99 spur advantage. James Silas led the Spurs with 38 points and teammate Larry Kennon had 28.

Two Unknowns Surprise Field At Daytona Trials

By JERRY GARRETT
AP Motorsports Writer

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Ramo Stott and Terry Ryan, who figured only to be cloaked in relative obscurity this week while preparing for the 18th annual Daytona 500, surprisingly have the limelight as Speed Weeks 1976 reaches its hectic climax the final four days of this week.

Stott, a Keokuk, Iowa corn and bean farmer, and Ryan, a truck driver from nearby Davenport, each led a field of 34 cars to the start of twin 125-mile qualifying races today, and will pace $1.4 million worth of high-speed machinery to the start of Sunday's $350,000 race.

"I've probably had more publicity out of this than anything else that's ever happened to me," said Stott, who won the U.S. Auto Club stock car championship last year. "The newspapers have really played it up here and my wife Judy, who keeps a scrap book of my career, is running all around the place buying up papers for the press clippings."

While much of Stott's racing has been on short tracks in the Midwest, he has an impressive history of finishes in major NASCAR Grand National races, including having never finished out of the top 10 in any year he has competed in the Daytona 500.

Stott, a two-time Automobile Racing Club of America titlist who has been racing at Daytona since 1963, found himself the pole winner at 183.456 miles per hour after the three faster qualifiers — A.J. Foyt, Darrell Waltrip and Dave Marcis — last Sunday had their times disallowed for using "non-approved" equipment.

Stott said he has spent time this week coaching Ryan in the fine art of drifting at 200 m.p.h.

Tiger Girls Struggle Past Marshall County

The Murray High Tiger girls found the going a little bit tougher as they played Marshall County for the second time in three days Wednesday evening.

After posting an easy 51-26 victory on the Marshals' home court Monday, the Tigers had to struggle to take a 42-34 win in the Murray gymnasium.

In the first quarter, it looked as if the Tigers were well on their way to another lopsided win over Marshall County. Murray, taking advantage of its height and strong defense, zipped out to a 10-0 lead at the end of the period.

Marshall County came to life in the second period and outscored the Tigers 13-10 to trail Murray 20-13 at intermission. In the third period, the Tigers and Marshals played on even terms.

Murray got the lead up to as CLEVELAND (AP) — Veteran National Football League official Tommy Bell says he doesn't anticipate television "instant replay" equipment being used in games that count.

Speaking at a banquet here this week, he said, "In the first place, you would need about 40 cameras," Bell explained. "Second, you'd be having five-hour football games. Third, you'd be removing the human element and that would hurt the game."

"Officials are right about 95 per cent of the time," he added. "That isn't bad."

much as 10 points in the final period and Marshall County could never get within striking distance.

Junior center Denise Bumphis paced the scoring attack for the Tigers with 11 points while junior forward Mary Ann Littleton added 10. Junior forward Tammy Boone was held to just nine points.

For the Marshals, Sharon Smith and Debbie McDonald each had nine points.

With the loss, the Marshals fall to 4-11 on the season while the Tiger girls now stand at 12-2.

Although held to nine points, Boone had her usual outstanding game on the boards as she grabbed off 11 rebounds while Bumphis pulled down nine. Murray outrebounded Marshall County 33-29.

The Tiger girls will play at Mayfield Monday night.

Standing On The Firing Line

By Mike Brandon
Sports Editor

They're Still Talking About The Play

Everyone is still talking about the play that cost Murray State a win over Indiana State Monday night.

Tuesday night, I covered the Calloway County game up at Lone Oak and ran into Paducah Sun-Democrat sports editor Pat Moynahan.

Pat had seen a similar play in 1966 at Lone Oak when a Tilghman player tipped in a basket at the buzzer.

"As I recall, Bob Swisher had a film of it and they talked about it for two days on television," Moynahan said.

Sure enough, Bob Swisher, the sports anchor man for Channel Six in Paducah, remembered the play.

"It was the first or second year they had the cylinder rule," Swisher said.

"It all boiled down to the cylinder. I remember we had a still picture of the play and we drew an imaginary cylinder over the basket.

"The officials ruled the ball was on the rim when the horn sounded. The same thing was brought to light Saturday in the Indiana-Michigan game.

"One of the announcers said they were trying to determine whether or not Benson had control of the ball. I think it's a silly rule. It doesn't matter how the ball goes in, just so it goes in," Swisher added.

Few people would disagree.

Cage Predictions

The cage predictions now stand at 120-58 for a .674 mark for the season.

Here are the predictions for Friday's Games:

MAYFIELD at Calloway County by six—Both teams are coming off losses, Mayfield to Carlisle County and Calloway to Lone Oak. If the Lakers decide to play ball like they are capable, they could well beat Mayfield. Even at that, they will have a tough time so I'll pick the Cardinals.

Hickman County at MURRAY HIGH by eight—The Tigers are rolling along with a 10-5 record and need this one. Murray has always played well against Hickman County and Friday should be no exception.

Other Friday games: ST. MARY at Ballard by 12, HEATH at Farmington by 23, SYMSONIA at Lone Oak by five, Cuba at SEDALIA by seven, Livingston Central at REIDLAND by 16, Fancy Farm at CARLISLE COUNTY by eight, Lowes at TILGHMAN by seven, Wingo at FULTON CITY by three and for Saturday: Caldwell County at MARSHALL COUNTY by 10 and Carlisle County at ST. MARY by 11.

Schedules Here

The Murray State baseball season will open at Reagan Field March 16 when Vanderbilt visits. The Breds will then take two days off before playing at home for 18 straight days.

The last home game is set for Sunday, May 2, when the Breds host SIU.

We have several hundred baseball schedules at the office and anyone wanting one may stop in and take a few. Or for those who don't have the time to stop by, catch me at a game in the next week or so and I'll make a point to have a few schedules with me.

Morehead Blows Lead And Loses To Xavier

By The Associated Press

Morehead played well enough to win its basketball game with Xavier Wednesday night, but unfortunately for the Eagles, the game didn't end after 36 minutes.

Leading 64-60 with less than four minutes to play, Morehead went scoreless the rest of the way while Xavier was scoring the points it needed to post a 65-64 victory over the Eagles.

The Musketeer's Archie Walker, who scored only three points, scored the winning point with a free throw with 1:43 left in the game.

Morehead had a chance to win with 12 seconds left, but Herbie Stamper's jump shot missed and Xavier's Joe Sunderman grabbed the rebound. Morehead got the ball again with two seconds left, but was only able to loft a court-length pass before the final horn sounded.

In the other game Wednesday involving Kentucky schools, Floyd Smith poured in 32 points to lead Bellarmine to a 92-78 victory over Kentucky Wesleyan at Owensboro, the Panthers' worst home defeat in five seasons.

Morehead, 9-9, took a brief lead in the second half at 55-49 with eight minutes left and still led by four almost five minutes later. Down 64-60, the Musketeers got baskets from Gary Whitfield and Mike Plunkett to tie the game 64-64, setting the stage for Walker's winning shot.

With Smith scoring four points and teammate Jim Pentzer adding six, Bellarmine roared to a 15-2 lead in the first four minutes against Wesleyan. The Panthers closed within 25-23 later in the half, but Bellarmine rebuilt its margin to 47-35 at halftime. The Knights, 15-5, led by at least 11 the rest of the game.

Calloway Sophomore Top Motocross Racer

Mike Watson: He May Be Pro Soon

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Jo Watson is a motorcycle mama.

She doesn't get out and ride down the highway like the motorcycle mama did in the song. Instead, she's a mama to her kids who are both motorcycle nuts.

One of the kids, and he'll be the first to admit he still is, is Jo's husband of 30 years, Bobby. The other kid, the one which the family takes across the country on weekends, is Mike, a 16-year-old sophomore at Calloway County High School.

Mike doesn't have dreams of becoming a professional motocross racer. His dreams are close to reality.

Since starting motocross racing at the age of 11, Mike has accumulated over 200 trophies, a lot of bruises and bloody noses and most of all, a lot of fun.

Every weekend, bar none, Mike Watson races. In the Western Kentucky Competition Riders' Association, he now sports the coveted number one plate on his bike. He has won state championships in Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri and Illinois.

There's a lot of glamour in traveling across the country every weekend. At least other people think there is.

As soon as school is over on Friday afternoon, the Watsons load up their camper and hit the road for Florida where Mike has been racing the past three weekends and where he will be going again this weekend.

"Jo and I take turns driving and Mike sleeps," Bobby said.

"We usually get to the site of the race about eight on Saturday morning and Mike signs up and then starts the long routine of checking out all of his equipment.

"We leave out Sunday and get back in Murray early Monday morning," Bobby added.

Are there any problems that confront the 16-year-old racer?

"Well, a couple of times, I've got back a little late for school on Monday mornings and received unexcused absences," Mike smiled.

Must be nice. Going to sunny Florida every weekend and lying out on the beaches.

"Are you kidding? I haven't even noticed there are any beaches in Florida...don't have time for that," Mike said.

Mike says the courses in Florida are extremely tough. The object of motocross is simply: ride as fast and hard as you can for 30 minutes plus one lap and the first person to cross the finish line wins.

Sounds easy doesn't it? Not hardly.

"There's nothing you can compare motocross to," Mike said.

"The whoop-de-dos are the most fun. Sometimes the hills are as high as six feet and you go over them at 50 and 60 miles per hour. One mistake can cost you as many as 25 places in a race."

Last weekend out of 84 racers, Mike finished fifth overall. Mike has five bikes but the one he has been riding in Florida is a 250cc Can-Am.

It weighs 225 pounds and for the entire 30 minutes, Mike holds up the front end of the cycle.

Not only is the racing hard on the individual but it's murder on the bikes. Last weekend, he broke a pipe, the handle bars and the frame of his Can-Am.

Mike is in tremendous physical shape. At least three times per week, he goes through a tortuous routine consisting of two hours of different types of exercises.

"I've played basketball and that's nothing compared to this," Mike laughed as he showed off his muscles.

Mike doesn't do any riding on the road.

"People ask me why I don't ever get out and ride around town. It's just not safe, what with all the cars on the highway."

Does he mean that motocross racing is safer than riding a street bike?

"Safety comes first. Motorcycle riders have a bad image," Bobby said.

"A lot of people think of racers as being a bunch of wild people who get out and do crazy things. It's not like that with Mike."

"Every time he gets on the cycle, whether it's a race or just practice, he wears anywhere from three to four hundred dollars worth of protective gear," Mike's father added.

Much of the protective equipment came from Can-Am. From June 1 until August 1 of last year, Mike won six AMA point races. For doing so, he won $200 worth of safety equipment. Mike is sponsored in his races by Town and Country-Yamaha of Murray.

Already, Mike's times in the amateur races at Florida are as good or better than the times of the professionals. The world champion motocross racer gets a $150,000 yearly salary for advertising and gets half of the total stakes for winning a race.

Mike Watson knows that with a little luck and a few more years on his already awesome body, he might be there.

"It really makes for a closer-knit family," Bobby says. "He doesn't go anywhere that we don't. Every race he's at, we're at," Bobby added.

Glamour? There has to be a little bit, even if Mike doesn't have time for the beaches.

"Well," Mike confessed, "I guess there is a little bit of glamour."

"You see there's this beautiful trophy girl in Florida. She wears these leather hot-pants and she really gives me an incentive to win...she kisses the winner."

Is she the girl of his dreams?

"Now, I haven't had any dreams about her...yet," Mike laughed.

Mike is just too busy worrying about how to keep that number one plate. The girl in the hot-pants will just have to wait because the king ain't about to give up his throne for a lady.

PART OF THE HARDWARE—There wasn't enough space in the camera to show all of the trophies Calloway County High School sophomore Mike Watson has won during the past five years of motocross racing. Watson, who hopes to become a professional, has been racing in Florida for the past three weekends.

Senate Committee Kills Bill Repealing Milk Marketing Law

Frankfort, Ky. (AP) — A bill to repeal the state's milk marketing law has been killed by a Kentucky Senate committee, but the sponsor of the measure says he will continue to try to get it passed.

Sen. Tom Easterly, D-Frankfort, said after learning of the committee action Wednesday that he would try again in the next legislative session.

The bill would have allowed retailers to sell milk below cost.

Under present law, processors and retailers of dairy products are licensed by a six member Milk Marketing and Antimonopoly Commission.

License holders are prohibited from selling dairy products below cost—that is, the actual cost of the product plus overhead.

Easterly argued last week that the bill would mean "one heck of a savings" for consumers.

Easterly and several others testified before a Senate Agriculture and Natural Resources subcommittee and that group issued its findings before the bill was tabled.

Sen. Joe Wright, D-Harned, said the subcommittee spent hours on the proposed bill and found "misinformation surrounding the price of milk in Kentucky versus bordering towns in Indiana that do not have a milk marketing law."

"Our evidence indicates that the consumer in Indiana does not benefit overall from a slightly lower price of milk at the retail level," Wright said.

"In fact the lower priced milk is used as a 'loss leader' and the total price of all grocery items indicates no net savings to the consumer."

Wright said the subcommittee found that this practice should not occur in Kentucky because "there is no evidence to support that the consumer would benefit in a reduction in his total grocery bill."

Wright said the panel found that "the milk marketing law of Kentucky contributes to the stability in our markets and causes milk to be sold at its true market value."

"We feel after all the information is in that Kentucky markets are as efficient as they can ever become without price wars and chaos in the dairy industry," Wright said.

Sen. John Berry, D-New Castle, said "we do have some concern about the milk marketing commission" and suggested it be looked into after the 1976 session ends by an interim legislative committee.

He said testimony before the subcommittee indicated few persons affiliated with the commission knew what they were talking about at the panel's public hearing a week ago.

Last week, Rep. Bob Hughes, D-Louisville, himself a retail grocer, argued against Easterly's bill. He said if controls on milk prices were removed, grocers would just mark up other items in their stores.

Another grocer, Joe Melton of Louisville, did not agree.

Melton agreed with Hughes that if milk were sold below cost he would mark up some items—but not those bought on a daily basis.

Easterly said his bill would increase competition and thereby result in a reduction in milk prices.

Truancy Bill Will Have No Effect, Senator Says

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A Kentucky Senate committee has approved a bill that one lawmaker says will have no effect and amounts to nothing more than an "expression of frustration."

Sen. David Karem, D-Louisville, made that comment Wednesday after the Senate Education Committee, with about 50 antibusing sympathizers looking on, approved a measure to exempt some children from state truancy laws.

Karem said the bill as approved by the committee does absolutely nothing—other than demonstrate distaste for court ordered busing.

"They believe, unfortunately, that it's going to do something for them," Karem said, referring to the antibusing sympathizers standing in the committee room. "It just boils down to the fact that there's not a thing we can do."

The bill, sponsored by Sen. William L. Quinlan, D-Louisville, as originally written would have exempted from truancy laws those children "required to be transported beyond the appropriate grade level nearest their place of residence."

Sen. Kenneth Gibson, D-Madisonville, objected to that language saying it could cause some problems in Hopkins County. The bill was then amended to exempt children who are required "to be transported beyond the appropriate designated boundaries for the grade level nearest to his place of residence in which space is available."

Karem said all that means is that school boards and the courts still can require children to attend certain schools by designating boundaries.

"This bill doesn't do anything," Karem said. "I believe that when you put in 'appropriately designated boundaries'—that could be any place within the school district."

The antibusing sympathizers, mostly women, were quiet. Some wore buttons, including one which proclaimed: "Kentucky, No. 1 in tear gas, No. 50 in Education."

It was a reference to tear gas used by police in Jefferson County last fall to break up antibusing demonstrations.

Karem told those in the room that the bill would be more of a symbol than anything else.

"What it's trying to get at is a frustration the people have," he said. "It is tantamount to an expression that they are frustrated."

One man, Barney Brewer of the Louisville suburb of Shively, a hotbed of antibusing sentiment, said "We're up here trying to get the rights of the whites back."

DeMarcus Takes Chair In House

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Minority Leader Harold DeMarcus took the chair and gavel of House Speaker William Kenton, D-Lexington Wednesday during a period of horseplay at the Kentucky General Assembly.

The speaker stepped down in deference to "the gentleman from Lincoln (County) in honor of Lincoln's birthday."

The 60-year-old veteran Republican gavelled the House to order and kept the members laughing with a series of wise cracks and tongue-in-cheek insults for the last few minutes of the session.

A Republican colleague, Rep. Larry Hopkins, R-Lexington, threw the acting speaker some bait when he asked for an interpretation of rule 48. That rule refers to the posting of bills in committee.

"I am here representing the Great Emancipator—Abe Lincoln—and I'm afraid I do not have his great wisdom," DeMarcus said. "Therefore I rule you out of order," he said to the applause of the legislators.

Referring to an earlier comment by Rep. Gerta Bendle, D-Louisville, who sits in the last row after she had chided speaker Kenton for not recognizing her when she stood, DeMarcus said "With that hat on I could see you (if you were standing) at Fourth and Broadway in Louisville."

He was referring to the hat which is the Louisville Democrat's trademark.

Hubbard . . .

Hubbard favored the higher supports when he voted to accept the conference report on the legislation, and Huddleston showed his support when he voted to override the President's veto, according to the story.

The Senate Watergate Committee, according to the Post, devoted 288 pages of its final report to recount political donations and pledges CTAPE, SPACE and ADEPT made at the time the Nixon Administration was deciding whether to raise price supports on milk in 1971, during the 1972 presidential campaign.

Associated Milk Producers Inc., and three of its top officials were convicted of making illegal campaign contributions to Nixon. The cooperative was fined $35,000 and two of the officials were fined $10,000 each and sentenced to four months in jail. The third official was given three concurrent two-year prison sentences.

Both Hubbard and Huddleston told the Post they saw nothing wrong with accepting the contributions.

Sen. Huddleston, who was in Mayfield Wednesday for a series of meetings and an open meeting with area residents at the Graves County courthouse, said the dairy group's $2,500 contributions was "just like any other contribution."

He said the contribution was entirely legal and had been fully reported both by himself and the SPACE Committee.

Huddleston noted that he has always been a supporter of the dairy industry since Kentucky is the nation's 10th largest dairy state, and that he hoped to be an effective spokesman for Kentucky's dairymen.

The senator, who had about 75 people waiting to see him when he arrived in Mayfield, added that he has never been asked for anything in return for a contribution from any representative or group from the dairy industry and never would promise anything in return for a contribution.

tournaments, winning a number of individual honors. Five of the 14 qualified for statewide competition.

"But to win team championships in debate and speech, you must have large numbers of students involved," he said, "as there are some 10 major events in addition to debate in which you must compete and win in order to pile up the points necessary to win championship trophies."

And that's what he's done, involved the students—more and more of them each year.

In 1971, the second year, 28 students "came out" for the team, and brought in 50 trophies in individual competitions. "We began to move around, traveling more and participating in more tournaments," he went on.

"People began taking notice and realizing that Calloway County High School was serious about building a strong debate and speech team. A lack of depth, however, kept us from being able to win enough total points to capture the major championships."

With student interest increasing and with some degree of success upon which to build, England began the next fall by recruiting students from across the state body for his program. Forty responded.

That year, 1972-73, his team won two sweepstakes awards, piling up more points than any other team in two major tournaments. This was the first time in the history of the school that a debate and speech sweepstakes trophy had been won. Eighteen of the team members qualified for the state tournament.

"This has been the springboard for our program," Larry says. "It was that year that the kids really got serious about wanting to be the best."

The following year, 1973-74, there was 75 to come out for the team, which, now with the depth it needed, swept to five sweepstakes awards and placed among the top four teams in every tournament in which it participated.

So great had the program grown by the fall of 1975, Larry has had to hold his team to 110 members after 150 students tried out for it last September.

Today, his team is ranked as one of the top debate and speech teams in Kentucky, and last spring Larry himself was honored by the Southern Association of Communicative Arts as the "Speech Teacher of the Year" in the state. The National Forensic League magazine lists the CCHS chapter as the largest in Kentucky in total people actively participating in competitions.

Thus far this season, the Calloway High debaters and speakers have captured an unprecedented seven sweepstakes trophies, including both the Murray State University debate and individual events tournaments, the Trigg County Invitational tournament and the Russellville tournament in which 24 of the top debate and speech teams in Kentucky and Tennessee participated.

The team also has finished second in another tournament and fourth in another. In only one tournament in which it has competed, has it failed to place among the top four winners. "That was when most of my people were away participating in a Beta Club activity and couldn't participate," England explained.

England's guiding light as a debate and speech teacher and coach has been Dr. Ray Moffield, a professor in the Department of Journalism, Radio-Television at Murray State and whose advice he often seeks.

"Dr. Moffield told me long ago in class that the secret to success in debate and speech competition was to have a large number of people involved," he said, "and that's what we have attempted to do by recruiting across the entire student body, stressing the value of speech and debate to one's personal development as well as the fun of being involved in a winning, competitive program.

"Everyone has something to contribute," he went on, recounting the rungs in the ladder his team is climbing toward the state championship. "There's great potential in young people. They simply need someone to push and motivate them while at the same time making them feel important and to realize and believe that they can achieve so much more than they ever thought possible."

That's his secret. It takes patience and a lot of hard work, but it's just that simple.

A native of Millburn and having grown up at Dublin in Graves County, England, 29, is married to the former JoBeth Watson of Kirksey, and they have one daughter, Lori, 3. His mother is Mrs. Gracie England, Vine Street, Murray.

Mine Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new approach to reducing mine deaths was promised Wednesday by Robert Barrett, head of the Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration (MESA).

Barrett said he will soon begin face-to-face meetings with the chief executives of mining companies with the worst safety records.

He said part of his goal will be to persuade corporate officials that the need is urgent that safety be upgraded in their mines. Barrett told a House subcommittee that 50 of last year's 154 fatalities occurred at six of the nation's largest companies. He said the statistic indicates there is a need for stronger MESA action.

Barrett indicated his first face-to-face meeting will be with the head of Peabody Coal Co., Edwin Phelps. He said Peabody mines had 16 fatalities in 1975.

Appointments To PSC Are Approved

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Without debate or objection, the Kentucky Senate Wednesday approved the appointment of two men to the state Public Service Commission.

Dr. William L. Matthews, Jr., of Lexington and Richard S. Taylor of Owensboro were approved by the upper chamber.

Their confirmations came one day after the Senate State Government Committee held hearing and asked both men questions.

Normally, the governor's nominations to the PSC, which regulates utilities, are rubber stamped by the Senate.

But when Senate Majority Leader Tom Garrett, D-Paducah tried to have the nominations confirmed two weeks ago, three senators all Democrats objected.

Sens. Tom Easterly of Frankfort, John Lackey of Richmond and Tom Ward of Versailles said they thought the senators should have more input in the selection process for PSC commissioners.

After the hearing on Tuesday, Ward, who compiled a list of questions, said he was satisfied.

He also said he and the others who called for a hearing never doubted the integrity of the nominees by merely wanted a commitment from them on how the PSC should operate.

AN INVESTMENT IN YOUR FUTURE

THIS NATION UNDER GOD

At the time Lincoln gave the "Gettysburg Address", America was facing the greatest crisis in its history. There was strong reason to believe that the United States, as men had known it, might cease to exist. It was against this background that Lincoln delivered these great words.

The Gettysburg Address was, in every sense, a re-dedication, a re-statement of the principles upon which this country was founded. The words, "this nation under God," were carefully chosen, for Lincoln believed that America alone, could not find its way out of the maelstrom of the Civil War. He believed that we needed God to lead us back to our sense of national purpose.

As we study our national history we find again and again that it is our dedication to God's teachings that has led us out of every national crisis. "This nation under God" is still capable of solving the problems of America today.

Local Candy Factory Is Sweet Tooth Delight

Even in an economy such as ours, people still haven't lost their sweet tooth, as evidenced by the prospering candy business at Almo.

Floyd Nixon, of Murray, is the owner of the business, which is located now in the old Almo school building. Production started in July, 1974, at Midway, with seven employees. That number now has grown to 18 persons, mostly women, employed at the candy factory.

The factory makes pecan logs, peanut logs, pecan divinities, and a bar called "Three Cheers," a divinity with peanuts and a slight malt flavor.

The Kentucky Candy Co. ships its products to five states besides Kentucky, including Tennessee, Illinois, Missouri, Indiana, and Alabama.

Jim Marsh, general manager of the plant, explained that their business is strictly wholesale now, but that future plans call for retail products as well. Customers now are restricted to fund-raising groups, such as schools and civic clubs, who buy the product from Kentucky Candy Co., and resell it for a profit to raise funds for their cause.

At full production, the plant turns out as many as 530 boxes per day, with 12 bars to a box.

Reagan Ahead Of Ford In Early Primary Campaign Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican challenger Ronald Reagan outspent President Ford last month in early primary states and had slightly better luck attracting private political contributions, the latest campaign finance reports show.

The gap was most evident in Florida, site of the nation's third presidential primary on March 9. Reagan spent

$152,126 there during January, nearly four times the $42,586 put out by the Ford campaign. Reports received Wednesday by the Federal Election Commission showed Reagan outspending the incumbent in these other primary states where the two clashed in February and March: New Hampshire, $49,623 for Reagan to $40,563 for Ford; Massachusetts, $58,727 to $14,630; Illinois, $66,012 to $47,327; and North Carolina, $61,342 to $32,574. In total expenditures for the month, Reagan's campaign spent $1.25 million to $723,512 for Ford, but at month's end Ford's campaign had $692,475 cash on hand to $53,156 for Reagan's.

For all of last year, Reagan raised $1.93 million and spent $1.51 million, while Ford raised $1.69 million and spent $1.47 million. On the contribution side, Reagan pulled in $786,627 in private funds to $708,274 for Ford. The President's side, however, had more of its contributions qualify for matching fund certification and took in $492,907 in government checks, compared with $100,000 for Reagan.

The reports are the first in a series of monthly disclosures required under the new federal election law. Not all the Democratic candidates' reports had yet been received by the FEC.

Meanwhile, there were these political developments Wednesday: —Sen. Henry M. Jackson led other Democratic candidates in Alaska precinct caucuses, although most party members remained uncommitted.

With less than 25 per cent of the results in, Jackson had 35 per cent of the delegates, former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter had 10 per cent and 55 per cent were listed as uncommitted.

—Reagan continued his campaign in New Hampshire, where his strategists said they were encouraged after Ford's campaign swing through the state last weekend. "Ford did not help himself by coming up here," said Hugh Gregg, Reagan's state chairman. Gregg said he has revised his prediction that Reagan will get 40 per cent of the vote to "something higher than that."

Gregg said Ford "may have even hurt himself" by the visit, citing a Ford aide's comment that campaigning is hard in the state because 40 miles outside a city "there's nothing but trees and bears."

John Michels, Ford's state chairman, said Gregg "is nuts" if he believes that. "The visit was a plus. It's helped us and it's given us a lot of support," Michels said.

—Jackson called for a tougher American foreign policy and said in Springfield, Mass., he will "maintain a voice in the U.N. like that we have had in Daniel Patrick Moynihan."

—Unsuccessful 1972 Democratic presidential candidate Sen. George McGovern said in Salt Lake City his supporters have the power to withhold the Democratic nomination from anyone he considers unacceptable.

CITY ORDINANCE

Ordinance Number 513 being an ordinance fixing and regulating the license taxes, and manner and form of granting and issuing same on the various lines of business, occupations, professions, trades, and callings in the City of Murray, Kentucky, and providing penalties for non-payment thereof, and for violation thereof, and making it unlawful to engage in any such lines of business, occupations, professions, trades, and callings without first paying the license tax and procuring licenses as provided herein.

SECTION I:

Whenever used in this ordinance the word "person" shall be construed to include within its meaning not only natural persons, but also firms, partnerships, associations, companies, and corporations.

SECTION II:

That on and after the 1st day of May, 1970 and on the same day in each succeeding year thereafter, it shall be unlawful for any person to engage in any business, occupation, profession, trade or calling hereinafter mentioned, in the City of Murray, Kentucky, until such person has first paid the amount of license tax to the City Clerk and has obtained from him the license as hereinafter specified, and required: If any such license tax be not so paid and the license procured on or before the 31st day of May in each year hereafter, there shall be added to such license tax a penalty of ten per centum (10%) thereof, and any and all such persons paying, or offering to pay such license taxes after the same have been delinquent, shall also pay ten per cent (10%) penalty thereon; provided further that such person commencing business after the 1st day of May shall pay the license tax required in this ordinance and upon failure to do so pay same within thirty (30) days after commencing such business, there shall be added to such license tax a penalty of ten per cent (10%) thereof. Said license taxes and penalties may be recovered as any other delinquent taxes.

Such license shall be required of any person residing outside the City or having a place of business outside the City limits if such person shall engage with continued activity in any business, occupation, profession, trade or calling hereinafter mentioned in the City, and who actually solicits and accepts business by holding himself out as engaging in such business the same as any person residing in the city and engaged in a similar business, occupation, profession, trade or calling.

No non-resident to whom any license is issued as herein provided for, shall be authorized to do any business thereunder other than that specified in such license.

For non-payment of such license tax within sixty (60) days after penalty date, the Common Council may at its discretion instruct the City Police to prohibit such non-resident from engaging in or following his occupation or business within the City.

SECTION IV:

Each license shall state the name of the person to whom it is issued, and no such license shall be assignable or transferable, nor shall any such license authorize any person other than the one mentioned in the license to do any business or to follow any occupation, profession, trade or calling other than that provided in such license. There shall be a separate license for each place of business, and each branch store or separate establishment shall be construed as a separate unit for the purpose of license taxes as provided herein.

SECTION VI:

All licenses granted under this ordinance, except as otherwise herein provided, shall expire on the 1st day of May of each and every year, and no license, except as otherwise herein provided, shall be issued for a less period of time than six (6) months. No portion of any license tax shall be refunded to any person, firm, company, or corporation, or to anyone else for their use or benefit.

SECTION VI:

An advertisement of any kind by any person, that he, they, or it, is engaged in any calling, occupation, trade, business, or profession, for the carrying on of which a license is required under this ordinance, shall be conclusive evidence for such license tax as provided by this ordinance.

SECTION VII:

Every person desiring to procure a license, as herein provided, shall when required, make application in writing to the City Clerk, giving and disclosing the information necessary to enable the City Clerk to determine the amount of license tax to be paid, the character of business to be conducted, and such other facts as may be necessary or proper to determine whether the applicant for such license shall be granted the license applied for, and in order to ascertain any facts necessary to determine the amount of license tax to be paid, the City Clerk may require each applicant, so applying, to furnish such information under oath as may be so required.

SECTION VIII:

Upon violation of any provision of this or any other ordinance or laws of the State of Kentucky by any person holding a license to engage in any business, occupation, trade, or calling as herein provided, such license may be revoked by the Common Council, and the judgment or conviction in the Police Court or any other Court of competent jurisdiction of a violation of any of the provisions of this or any other ordinance or laws of the State of Kentucky shall be conclusive evidence of such violation.

SECTION IX:

Each person carrying on or conducting any business, trade, occupation, employment, or profession for which a license is required under the provisions of this ordinance or any other ordinance not repealed by this ordinance, where a fine has not been provided for, without having first obtained a license to carry on and conduct such business, trade, occupation, employment, or profession, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction in the Police Court in the City of Murray shall be fined not less than Five Dollars ($5.00) nor more than Twenty Dollars ($20.00), and each day that such business, trade, occupation, employment, or profession is carried on without such license shall be considered a separate offense.

SECTION X:

If any person who is engaged in any of the businesses, callings, occupations, or professions desires to engage in such businesses at any intervening period, his license shall be issued by the clerk for the fractional part of said year and made to expire as herein provided and he shall be charged for such period the proportionate part of said license tax for the period so engaged by him in his business, calling, occupation, or profession, except that this shall not apply to any temporary license as is provided for in this ordinance; nor to any business, occupation, calling, or profession named and designated "Not For Rated," rate of a full year regardless of the date of issuance, and made to expire on the 1st day of May following.

SECTION XI:

Every person, before engaging in any business, occupation, profession, trade, or calling hereinafter mentioned and described shall pay the license tax hereinafter provided and set opposite the name of the business, occupation, profession, trade, or calling for which license taxes are required, together with the amount of such license tax, the same applying to each business location, except as otherwise specifically set out.

SECTION XII:

AS OF February 11, 1976, I am no longer responsible for any debts other than my own. Joseph G. Morgan.

SECTION XIII:

AS OF 10 February, 1976, I the undersigned will no longer be responsible for any debts other than my own. Verdon Rhodes.

Burley Tobacco Quotas Reduced

1976 farm marketing quotas of burley tobacco will be 5 percent less than last year's quotas; according to David E. Riley, County Executive Director, Calloway County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office. This reduction is the maximum allowed by law and was taken to maintain supplies in line with demand.

"Because of special provision of the burley tobacco program, effective farm quotas for 1976 are expected to total about 727 million pounds, 3 percent less than last year," Riley explained.

Under current legislation, a farm that markets less than its quota of burley tobacco will have its quota raised the following year to make up the difference. Likewise, any marketings in excess of a farm's quota are reduced from the farm's quota for the following year. Mr. Riley said these provisions allow the total actual farm quotas in effect in a given year to be greater or smaller than the announced marketing quota.

"Notices of individual farm poundage quotas will be mailed to farm operators about March 15," Riley said, "the earliest date that adjustment can be made to reflect 1975 under and over marketings."

As in the past, a small amount of quota will be reserved in 1976 to establish quotas for farms having no burley history during the past five years, for correcting errors and for adjusting inequities. Applicants for the burley tobacco program will be given equal consideration without regard to race, color, sex, creed or national origin.

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — A case involving a local justice of the peace who performed a nude wedding was continued until Feb. 18 by Campbell County Judge Lambert Hehl Wednesday.

Magistrate Earl Leonard, 69, of Newport was ordered by Hehl to show why his authority to perform marriages should not be revoked on grounds that the ceremony, in which the bride and bridegroom were in the nude, embarrassed the county and demeaned the solemn rites of marriage.

Leonard's attorney, William Oldfield of Covington, asked for the delay to give him time to prepare a defense for his client.

Leonard, who said through his attorney that he didn't know what he was getting into and probably wouldn't do it again, married a New Orleans striptease dancer and her spotlight operator at the Brass Ass club here before several photographers and reporters.

Kentucky Apparently Won't Ban Sale Of Aerosol Sprays In State

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky apparently won't become the second state in the union to ban the sale of aerosol sprays that contain material allegedly harmful to the earth's ozone layer—at least not this year.

The Kentucky Senate's Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee tabled Wednesday a bill by Sen. David Karem, D-Louisville.

Karem said the only other state with such a law is Oregon.

Two scientists, an attorney and Karem spoke on the measure, and the scientific explanation was needed because of words such as "trichlorofluoromethane" and "difluorodichloromethane" contained in the bill, which Karem wanted to take effect Jan. 1, 1978. Scientists have charged that the earth's ozone layer is being adversely affected by the wide use of aerosol sprays which contain those and other elements.

Dr. Stanford L. Smith, a University of Kentucky chemistry professor, said a theory is that continued use of fluorocarbons will eventually damage the ozone layer which shields humans, animals and plants from damaging ultra violet light. But he said whether to outlaw it in Kentucky was a political and social question not a scientific one.

"As a scientist, all I can tell you is that there is a lot of reason for concern," Smith said. "There are no hard answers. If we don't stop using these materials, we are going to have a problem. You can call this scientific intuition."

He said, "If Kentucky outlawed the use of aerosol sprays the effect would be minuscule," even if the entire nation outlaws use of the sprays the effect still may be minimal because they are used all over the world.

Smith said industry is "making a massive effort to determine if the chemicals are indeed harmful and that the federal government is spending $14 million to research the problem."

Dr. Louis C. Glasgow, a chemist with the Dupont Co. in Wilmington, Del., said scientists won't know for at least two years whether aerosol spray products are harmful to the environment.

And a Dupont attorney, Jack Erskine, said that if aerosol products eventually "are found to be harmful, we will cease production."

"Since the University of Kentucky scientist indicated in this state it was more of a political issue than a scientific one, the committee at Karem's suggestion decided a resolution would be the proper method for the state to express its position on the subject."

Tressa Brewer, co-chairman of the Murray High School Student Council Pancake Breakfast, sells a ticket to Eli Alexander, center, principal, and Coach John Hina. The breakfast will be held Saturday, February 21, from six a.m. to eleven a.m. at the school. Also featured will be a pancake eating contest.

Oak Grove Presbyterian Church Plans Birthday Events Saturday

The Oak Grove Cumberland Presbyterian Church will have a special celebration at the church, located north of Penny near the Calloway-Marshall County line, on Saturday, February 14.

A "downhome" potluck supper will be held at seven p.m. in the church fellowship hall. Following the supper birthday gifts, brought to the church by her members, will be displayed.

February 14 is a special day for the church community as this is the birthday of the founding of the first Cumberland Presbyterian Church in that area. The church was organized in 1875 in the small community then called Copeland. The original church was called Friendship Church, but when the church was built on the present site in the Oak Grove community, the name was changed to Oak Grove Church.

At eight p.m. Saturday a play reenacting the founding of the Friendship Church will be presented. The play is unique in the fact that it has been written and a large majority of the cast are direct descendants of the founders of the church.

The founders are W. J. Lamb, C. R. Anderson, Tom Swift, W. H. Egman, J. F. Groves, and H. E. Putman. All friends and neighbors are invited to attend any or all of these special events of the church, a church spokesman said.

He said the Saturday would give the working man more opportunity to vote and the month would be more convenient for the farmer because May is the planting season.

"It will also allow college students to vote because their final examinations come in May," he said.

House Committee Okays Bill Changing Primary

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A Republican-sponsored bill to change Kentucky's primary month from May to August has won approval from a House committee — and the Democratic administration indicates it will go along.

"I'm very surprised, my bills usually don't get much support among the opposition, but I applaud their stand," said House Minority Leader Harold DeMarcus, D-Stanford.

The original version would have changed voting day from the first Tuesday after the fourth Monday in May to the last Tuesday in August.

The revised version sets the last Saturday in August. The elections and constitutional amendments committee voted out the bill for House consideration.

The only exception on August would be in presidential years, when the date would be the last Tuesday in May.

One source in Gov. Julian Carroll's office said the idea has merit. DeMarcus said he also has been told State Democratic Chairman Howard (Sonny) Hunt is receptive.

If finally enacted, the measure would set the block back 20 years, when the August primary date was changed to May. The effective year of the measure is 1977.

DeMarcus said he has noted a growing lack of interest in Kentucky elections.

"I believe our system of having an election day every six months has actually turned people off the political process," he said. "This just contributes to poorer and poorer government."

The minority leader said that moving the primary to late in August "will cut the campaigning down to about four months each year instead of 10 to 12 months."

He said the Saturday would give the working man more opportunity to vote and the month would be more convenient for the farmer because May is the planting season.

"It will also allow college students to vote because their final examinations come in May," he said.

Dr. Hufnagle To Speak At Nurses' Meet On Monday

The regular monthly Community Continuing Nursing Education Meeting sponsored by the Murray Calloway County Hospital will be held Monday, February 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the Hospital Conference Room.

Dr. Katy Hufnagle will be the guest speaker and her topic will be, "Communicating with the Stroke Patient."

Dr. Hufnagle is a speech pathologist, associated with the Paducah Speech and Language Clinic. She attended Ball State University and has done her graduate study at Murray State University.

Bake Sale Planned Here On Saturday

The Willing Workers Club of the Hazel Community will have a bake sale at Roses in the Central Shopping Center Murray, on Saturday, February 14, starting at 10:30 a.m.

Independence Church Plans Fellowship

The monthly Third Sunday Fellowship will be held Sunday, February 15, at seven p.m. at the Independence United Methodist church.

Chili Supper To Be At Pleasant Grove

A chili supper will be held at the South Pleasant Grove United Methodist Church on Saturday, February 14, with serving to start at 5:30 p.m.

Monday Is Holiday For City Schools

The school calendar which was approved by the Murray Board of Education last spring, designated Monday, February 16 as a holiday. This date is designated in most states as the legal observance of Washington's birthday.

Legion And Auxiliary To Meet On Friday

The American Legion and Auxiliary will meet Friday, February 13, at seven p.m. at the Legion Hall at South Sixth and Maple Streets.

SAR Chapter Will Host Dinner Here On February 21

Washington's Birthday Bicentennial Celebration Dinner will be held by the James Campen Chapter of the Kentucky Society of the Sons of the American Revolution on Saturday, February 21, at six p.m. at the Murray Woman's Club House.

Postoffice To Be Closed On Monday

The Murray Postoffice will be closed Monday, February 16, in observance of George Washington's birthday, a national holiday.

Prosecution In Hearst Trail Could Rest Case By Week's End

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The prosecution in Patricia Hearst's trial for bank robbery, with most of its big guns already fired, could rest its case by the end of the week.

Still to come is the playing of a taped communique sent from the underground in which Miss Hearst said she willingly joined her terrorist kidnappers in the April 15, 1974, bank robbery.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. said after Wednesday's court session that he has, in addition to playing the tape, "five or six more witnesses" to call.

They will testify on technical matters, detailing such things as the seizure of evidence and Miss Hearst's arrest last Sept. 18, he said.

Chief defense counsel F. Lee Bailey fought for two days at a special hearing outside the presence of the jury to suppress the taped communique and to prohibit testimony about a shooting and kidnapping incident in Los Angeles in which Miss Hearst also is charged.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter ruled that the government could use the tape and the testimony of a Los Angeles teen-ager who said the newspaper heiress and two others held him hostage overnight in May 1974.

Carter's ruling all but assured that the defendant will take the stand in her own defense and recount for the jury her version of life with her Symbionese Liberation Army kidnappers.

Bailey acknowledged outside court that introduction of the tape would "sharply increase" the likelihood that he will ask Miss Hearst to repeat for the jury the story she told to the judge — and the world — on Tuesday.

She testified that she lived in constant fear of being killed by the SLA if she did not cooperate from the time she was kidnapped on Feb. 4, 1974, until shortly after her capture in San Francisco.

Browning called her story a lie and urged the judge to admit the tape and the evidence of her activities in Los Angeles.

"Everything the court has heard from Miss Hearst of her coercion in a year and a half is not true," he said.

Carter then declared that "by the preponderance of the evidence, the government has established that the statements made by the defendant after the happening of the bank robbery, by recording, orally or by writing, were made voluntarily."

He promised a detailed explanation of his decision in writing soon.

Having been tipped by Bailey in advance on what to expect from Carter, Miss Hearst sat expressionless. Her parents, Randolph and Catherine Hearst, did not move for several minutes.

The jury was then brought into the courtroom, and Browning called two witnesses to repeat the testimony that previously had been withheld from the sequestered jurors.

Anthony Shephard, a clerk at a sporting goods store in central Los Angeles, said he caught SLA members William and Emily Harris shoplifting and scuffled with them on the sidewalk.

Miss Hearst has admitted breaking up the fight by peppering the store with submachine gun fire from a van parked across a busy four-lane street from the store, allowing the Harrises to flee.

Shephard said he later saw a woman who fitted the description of Miss Hearst walk toward him holding a weapon across her chest.

During cross-examination, Bailey attempted to destroy Shephard's credibility as a witness by alluding to Shephard telling police that the figure was 6 feet tall.

The 5-foot-3 Miss Hearst stood at Bailey's request, but Shephard contended he saw the person from the bottom of a hill and, from his direction, a short person would look taller. He never identified Miss Hearst with certainty.

Thomas Dean Matthews, a 19-year-old college student, testified that the Harrises and Miss Hearst took him hostage and used his van as part of their getaway.

Smiling frequently and brushing hair from his eyes, the casually clad youth told of his night-long ride through the streets of Los Angeles with benevolent captors. He admitted a fondness for the Harrises and Miss Hearst "because they were all so nice."

Miss Hearst, he said, deftly handled weapons in front of him, freely told how she joined the SLA and boasted of her role in the robbery.

She was constantly asking him if he was comfortable in the back of the van and patted him on the head several times, he said.

Humane Society To See Filmstrips

The Humane Society of Calloway County will hold its quarterly meeting on Monday, Feb. 16 at 7:30 p.m., at the United Campus Ministry Building, 202 N. 15th street.

Materials including slides and filmstrips currently being used in the school program will be shown.

The public is invited to show support for the Humane Society by being present at the meeting, a spokesman said.
